SOURCE:

1. During 1951 and 1952, fords were constructed in the Petrich area adjacent to all bridges on the Petrich (N 41-24, E 23-13) - Draganovo (N 41-25, E 23-17) road. Vehicles can pass over these fords if the bridges are destroyed. The detours are about 2.5 to 3.0 meters wide and permit only 1-way traffic. The fords are, of course, located on the more fordable side of each bridge at a distance of five to 25 meters from the bridge, depending on the surrounding terrain. The fords have been neglected and are being washed away by torrents.
2. The fords were constructed by the local residents who were called up to perform this temporary labor service under the supervision of Trudovak officers.
